4. Business Arising from minutes

4.1 Regarding the Dust collector the project has not gone out to tender. The school does not know who will be awarded the contract and it is delayed until June 2021. Given the timeline we would have to close down our shops until December. The Center is trying to get the JFK project on the way. Which will house furniture finishing and 2 cabinet making classes. We did not see the project taking more than 6 months. But the timeline brought us all back and we did not have an alternative plan, once the tender is awarded then it becomes an official.

4.2 RTC has hosted the competition for machining techniques and our students won 1st, 2nd and 3rd place. The competition was delayed due to covid 19.

6.3 Online classes for Industrial Drafting and Graphics, J. Pevec is seeing if we should continue those classes online. If we will proceed with online we have lots of work to do, it has been challenging but it has advantages as well, on May 25th we had some computer graphics start real online courses, the adobe software has been working with IT to get the software, we loaned I-macs to students. Industrial drafting online, we loaned out many laptop computers, all students are doing onsite examinations. Students will continue to do exams up until June 30th.

6.4 J. Pevec, on May 28th we re-surveyed to see whether or not they would return June 1st, we knew not all students wanted to come to the center, for covid reasons. Every teacher called the students attending their modules, if 75% or more of the groups wanted to return we opened the group. Only 6 groups returned and came back and finished an interrupted module.
